

Shchastia City Military Administration

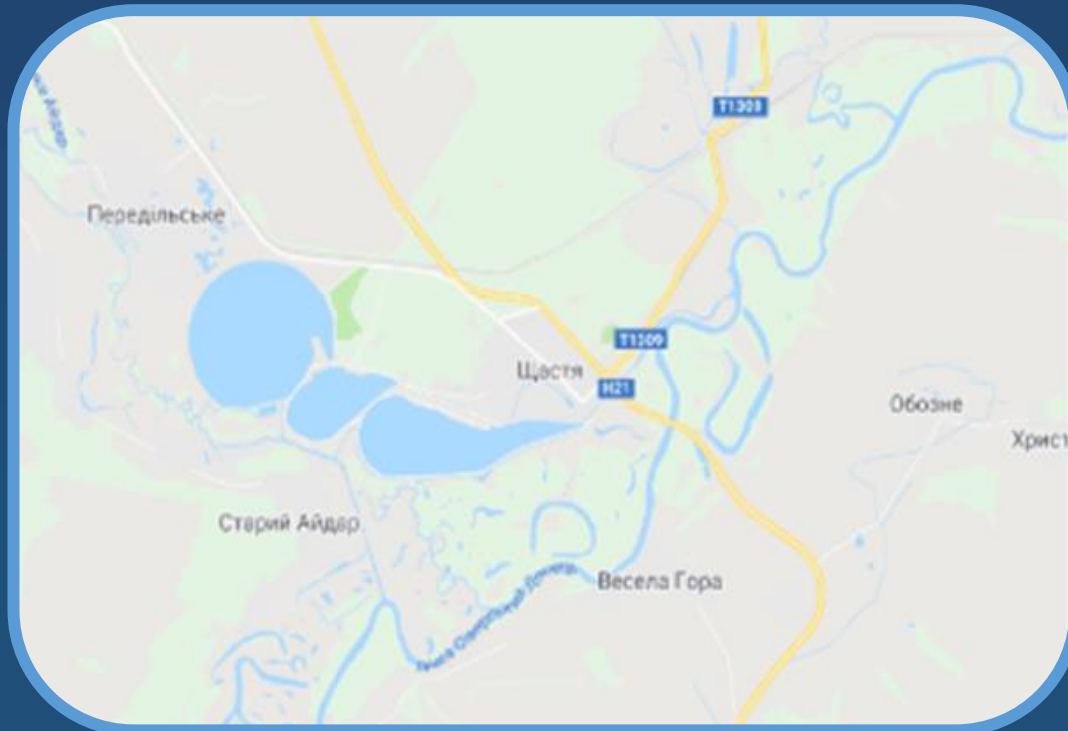

Shchastia Raion
of the Luhansk Oblast

Historical Background

The origins of the settlement on the site of modern Shchastia date back to the late 17th century. Among shifting sand dunes near the full-flowing Siverskyi Donets River, peasants fleeing landowner oppression settled, hoping to find their happiness. Additionally, Siverskyi Donets was once a border river. Crossing to the left bank meant finding freedom and happiness.

- In 1963, by decision No. 522 of the Luhansk Regional Council, the settlement was granted city status. The transformation of a small village into a modern city with developed infrastructure was linked to the construction of the Luhansk Thermal Power Plant. The station's construction was completed in 1969.
- On June 12, 2020, the city of Shchastia was merged with the Trohizbenka village council of Novoaidar district, as well as the Peredilske and Petropavlivka village councils of Stanytsia-Luhanska district.

Economy

The economic potential of the community's settlements is based on thermal power generation, the agro-industrial complex, and individual entrepreneurs.

The main industrial facility within the Shchastia city territorial community is the "Luhansk TPP" of DTEK "Skhidenergo" (privately owned), a strategically significant facility located 3 km from Shchastia. Its main activity is electricity production.

Individual entrepreneurs form the backbone of small business in the community. As of January 1, 2021, 168 business entities were engaged in trade in the city, including 58 food outlets, 57 non-food outlets, and 25 kiosks. Eight businesses operated in the consumer services sector.

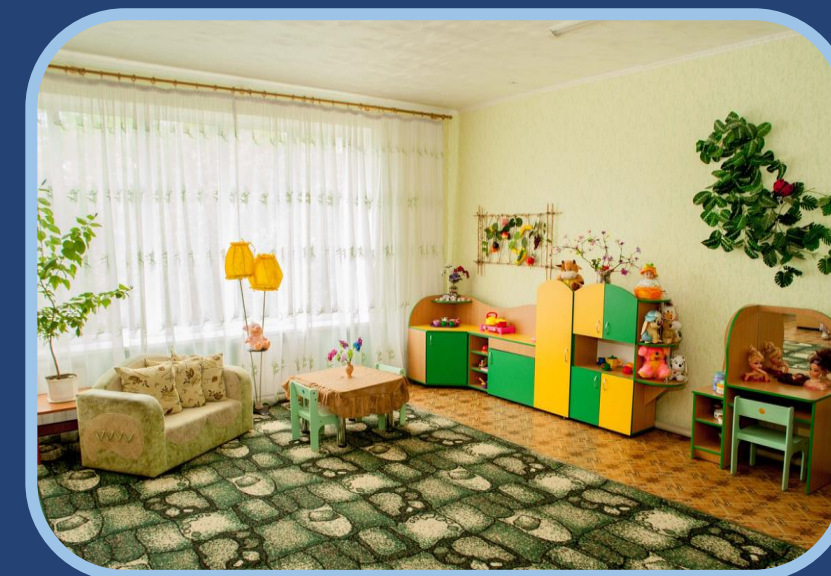

The banking sector was represented by branches of PrivatBank and Oschadbank.
